UNIVERSITY
OF LEEDS

Active
Campus

Leeds International Festival of Ideas returns for its sixth edition this October, bringing together some of the most compelling voices in public life for five days of conversation, debate and discovery.

How do we talk about suicide?

Wed 7th October 7.30pm—9.00pm

Suicide remains one of society's most difficult and often taboo conversations — yet silence can come at a devastating cost. This sensitive and thought-provoking debate about how we talk about suicide brings together academics, campaigners, and people with deeply personal experiences of loss and recovery.

Roman Kemp, Broadcaster

Is it time to switch off social media?

Fri 9th October 7.30pm—9pm

Join our expert panel for a provocative debate on the platforms shaping modern life and analyse influencer culture to addictive doomscrolling. What is the real psychological impact, and is it finally time to switch it all off?

Megan McKenna, TV Presenter

Strength beyond the silence

Thu 8th October 7.30pm—9pm

What does it take to succeed when the world isn't built with you in mind? Join an inspiring conversation with remarkable women who have challenged attitudes on disability and turned their unique perspectives into their greatest strengths.
